Mexico City, Feb. 14.—The resignation of Francisco I. Madero from the presidency is believed to be in the hands of the Mexican congress. It was authoritatively stated that Madero agreed to resign, if the senate so wished. The senate was called into session about eight o'clock tonight for the purpose of taking action on this important phase of the situation.

At the British legation, where Senor De La Barra took refuge Thursday, it is stated that Madero's resignation had the purpose of taking action on this important phase of the situation.

At the British legation, where Senor De La Barra took refuge Thursday, it is stated that Madero's resignation had practically been arranged for, and that De La Barra would likely succeed him

Later Senor De La Barra while proceeding through the street in an automobile stopped and made a brief address, assuring the crowd that a peace settlement was certain and probably would be reached before morning. De La Barra had been in consultation with both Madero and Diaz regarding a quick settlement in order to avoid intervention. To Avoid Intervention

At six o'clock tonight General Huer-ta, the federal commander, gave the order to cease firing. Soon detach-ments of federals were seen marching from their positions to the government base near the palace, their guns slung

In case of dilatory tactics it is not impossible that Diaz may decide to force the action. He has repeatedly said that nothing short of the resignation of the president would satisfy him—that Madero must resign or he himself would die fighting.

Madero's Friends Plead with Him. Another Interchange of notes took place today between General Huerta and the rebel commander. That of Huerta was of a conciliatory character, it offered Diaz permission to retire in ace with his men. Diaz replied that he would continue to fight.

His army repulsed with great loss and after his absolute failure to sub-jugate General Felix Diaz with not half the number of men, Madero was subjected to the pleading of his closest friends, many going so far as to demand his resignation.

Less Damage Yesterday.

The government has not been whip-ped, nor have the rebels. Diaz is not attempting to whip the government at that in an eminently brilliant manner, although the methods employed result-ed in a ruthless bombardment of the capital by two heavy forces of ar-The damage done today was not so which provoked the first sharp reply from the rebels.

Diaz waited until the federals were far down the line, and then threw into their ranks a hail of shrappel and swept them with machine gun fire. Few left the street alive. The government troops attempted to carry the rebel position from other directions, but always with the same result: the federals fell under a withering fire or were driven back to shelter,

At two o'clock in the afternoon a general order to cease firing was given, but for the two preceding hours the fire from the government lines had practically been suspended. General De La Llave commanding the line directly to the east of the rebel posi-tion, admitted that he was unable to advance. Failure had been encounter ed in all quarters.

It was coincidental with this ceasing of fire that a battalion of the Twentieth infantry revolted. All but a handful of these federals succeeded in joining Diaz.

The men suddenly turned upon their officers and shot them, but the sound of these shots did not attract general attention in the heavy fusillade. talion broke for the rebel lines, reaching there in safety.

Thirty-eight of them were overpowered, however, by the loyal troops and were marched to the palace, where they will probably be executed.

Although the firing on both sides was lighter today, the total number of shells used was enormous and the incidental destruction to property great. The loss of life among the noncombatants as a result of the shelling probably was less than on the other days, because everyone who had days, because everyone who had strength enough moved out of the districts near the center of the operations, and by reason of the fact that the rebels confined their artillery action largely to the streets threatened by essenti

"Vivas For Diaz." Passengers from Guadalajara Minister of Interior Resigns.

The laws of Mexico make it necessary for the resignation of the president to be submitted to the congress and for this reason official announcement of the resignation of Madero would be considerably delayed, even if already decided upon.

Another development of the early evening was the resignation of Ratel Hernander as minister of the interior.

All trains leaving the capital are crowded with refugees of every nationality, but the Mexican fugitives predominate.

UNITED STATES PLEASED. Belief That Armed Interference Won't

hardly surprising. It served instantly to clear the horizon of the storm clouds which came nearer as the prospect of armed interference on the part of the United States seemed inevitable. States seemed inevitable.
State department officials, since the opening of the fight in the plaza before the Mexican national palace last Sunday, have eagerly awafted night and day for official and unofficial advices from the scene of the conflict, and the government was fully pre-pared to meet any situation which might arise. We Were Ready for Trouble. As a result of the co-operation of the navy and war departments, their com-

Five other warships are well on their way towards Mexican ports, and Acting Secretary Winthrop said to-night that in all probability they would continue to their destinations. Not less prepared was the army. The entire first brigade of the first division. 3,000 strong, was under marching orders and awaiting the command of Major General Leonard Wood, chief of staff, to entrain from the respective stations in New York and proceed to Newport News, Va., where four army transports are fully equipped and provisioned, to set out for the Gulf of Merica to support the new location.

cussion But For Action.

Mexico City, Feb, 14—The secretary of the American colony in Mexico City today drew up a protest to the American people against the proposed plan of John Barrett, director of the Pan-American Union, for mediation in the Mexican struggle by an international commission, The protest reads:

"The American colony will be grateful to The Associated Press if it will indicate to the American people through its agencies the vast harm that is being done by the indiscreet comments of John Barrett on the Mexican situation and by his proposed plans for its amelioration which are published here.

"This is not a time for discussion, but for energetic action. The American government's energetic attitude of activity and alertness revealed yesterday made an excellent impression here bith in sobering the two contestants who are waging warfare in Mexico City and in arresting panic among all the foreign elements.

Washington, Feb. 14.—News from Mexico City that Pedro Lascurain, the Mexican foreign minister, had twice today requested United States Ambassador Wilson to move the American embassy to another location caused the state department considerable concern. state department considerable concern, and efforts to obtain official confirma-tion of this information were begun at

The unofficial report that the federal authorities had made such a request as a result of a milltary plan to draw the rebel fire in the path of the embassy was calculated to raise a grave issue, and the further report that despite Ambassador Wilson's refusal to cede to the request the federals had begun to place cannon in position to endanger the embassy aroused unusual activity in the department.

Messages were sent to Ambassador Wilson for a report on this develop-ment as soon as possible, and officials of the department remained on duty tonight to communicate to Secretary tonight to communicate to Secretary Knox all information obtainable. It was thought probable, if the fierce artillery firing continues, that the ambassador might be forced to yield to this demand of the military situation, and this persessatily would involve ad-this demand of the military situation, and this necessarily would involve additional hardships upon American refugees who would have to be removed hastily to other quarters.

Ambassador Wilson's declination early in the day to yield to General Diaz's request for recognition as a belligerent met with the full approval of the state department. It was pointed out, however, that should General Diaz's forces obtain complete po session of the city through decisive defeat of the federals, the ambassador would be authorized to transact business with him as a de facto official, although that would not constitute a political recognition of the insurgent cause.

The American embassy he describes as overcrowded with refugees. In ad-dition, food supplies are running very low, and it is necessary for the am-bassador's servants to make sallies through the lines of fire into the subthrough the lines of fire into the sub-urbs of the city to gather up food for the hungry. It is understood that similar conditions prevail in the other legations, though several of these have been obliged to find new homes. Many Americans, the ambassador reports, are displaying great courage and a spirit of self sacrifice, but the panic's still great, and an enormous amount of property, including several amount of property, including several large American apartment houses, whose inmates were rescued with great difficulty, have been destroyed.

Gathering Up the Americans. The American embassy constantly is rushing automobiles through the firing lines, almost between salvos, to pick up such Americans as remain in the danger zone. The effort to remove them all has not been fully successful, coving to the range of fire and the them all has not been they successful, owing to the range of fire and the limited localities of refuge.

Train service between Mexico City and the remainder of the country is reported practically cut off, with the exception of the line to Vera Cruz, so that the American embesses is almost that the American embassy is almost isolated from the consulates. Meanwhile, fresh revolutionary disturbances are reported in Tamaulipas and other outlying states.

The situation in the Mexican capital The situation in the Mexican capital is regarded in military circles here as unparalleled in modern history and experts are astounded at the ammunition sources of the contending forces. One army officer declared today that the United States army could not fight six days, as the combatants in Mexico have done, with all of the ammunition now on hand. Although theoretically equipped with 1,000,000 rounds of ammunition for the three-inch field guns, there are less than 150,000 rounds in munition for the three-inch field guns, there are less than 150,000 rounds in United States arsenals, while of the 60,000 rounds supposed to be available for the slege guns, only 2,500 are in sight, Moreover, about 1,000 rounds per day represent the entire maximum product of United States arsenals.
